

19th Thomas More International Days

Unit Technology @Campus Geel

Preliminary Planning

- Monday 18/03: Arrival of guests
- Tuesday 19/03: Plenary day organized by our International Office, @campus Mechelen and De Nayer on the theme of Democracy or 'Democracy': navigating the impact of AI on society.

On this day, all our guests from different countries and study fields will meet in both an informal and formal setting. We believe that this day will give you a lot of learning and networking opportunities and possibilities to visit the sights of Mechelen.

- Wednesday 20/03: this day will be more dedicated to guest lectures in the fields of Technology: Electromechanics, Energy technology, Construction and IT @campus Geel
- Thursday 21/03: Multidisciplinary and Project-Based day @campus Geel. We meet on campus for our multidisciplinary and project-based day with the working title: " How can AI increase (e)quality for all? The day is organised by numerous educational departments and will be attended by all incoming guests and about a thousand students. The day begins with plenary sessions featuring two keynote speakers providing insights into AI and the Sustainable Development Goals (SDGs). We then inform all attendees about the day's approach. Following the design thinking methodology, students and teachers will collaboratively work in small groups to formulate substantive answers to the posed question. We invite you as an international guest lecturer to support the student teams from your own expertise (detailed briefing will follow later on).
- Friday 22/03: Possibility for department specific discussions + departure of our guests.
